

Tokyo University of Foreign Studies

ACADEMIC PUBLISHING WORKSHOP 2023

Advice on publishing in English for academics, early career researchers, and PhD students
(Zoom Online Workshop)

When?

20 January 2023 (Fri.)
17:45–19:45

Where?

Zoom

How?

Language: English

Admission: Free

Please register here

(by 19 January 17:00):

<https://forms.gle/ngUDAvVKshdxuxyv8>

Contact: haukamp@tufs.ac.jp

Why attend?

Due to increasing demand to publish internationally in English, many scholars find themselves encountering unforeseen professional challenges. While English is an international language, there are still many cultural differences in communication and varying academic expectations across the broad spectrum of English-language publishers across the globe. This workshop will help scholars at any stage of their career begin to develop the knowledge and skills necessary for selecting and approaching appropriate academic journals and book publishers to manage their time and career effectively. Topics will include: author responsibilities and publisher services; managing the peer-review process; open access publishing; and avoiding predatory journals, publishers, and conferences.

Who are the experts?

- Dr Christopher Gerteis
(The University of Tokyo & School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London)

Academic Editor and Associate Professor
Executive Editor – International Journal of Asian Studies
Founding Series Editor – SOAS Studies in Modern & Contemporary Japan
Institute for Advanced Studies on Asia - International Publishing Initiative
The University of Tokyo

- Jennifer E. Anderson, MSc
Publishing Consultant

Organised by:
Gender Equality Committee & Institute of Japan Studies

PS: This flyer might be simple but the workshop is going to be great!